

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Message from his excellency, the governor, by Mr. Ames, private secretary, conveying his message to the General Assembly of the state of Illinois.

Whereupon the Speaker laid before the House the following message from the governor, which was read by the clerk :

Fellow Citizens of the Senate, and House of Representatives :

After a season of vicissitudes of more than ordinary note, among which may be mentioned a drought in a very large portion of the state, which has no parallel in the memory of any now living—a season characterized throughout the world with more than common pestilence—a season of commercial reaction and financial panic, we still find ourselves called upon for sentiments of profound gratitude for the great measure of prosperity and happiness which has been allotted to us. While the past year has been one to test most severely the inherent capacity of our state and the energies of her people, yet the manner in which they have withstood the trial, clearly proves that the state will not easily be made the victim of transient misfortunes. The unexampled drought has in many instances left a melancholy record of ruined hopes and blasted crops, yet the state still abounds with well filled granaries, and no people on earth can claim more perfect exemption from want. It might well have been expected that the monetary crisis through which the whole country has been passing, should have checked the progress of a new state just started in its career of extensive internal improvement; but while it has been peculiarly severe in many individual cases, I am happy to know that the great interests of the public have rapidly progressed, greatly beyond what might have been expected from the condition of the times.

Un'oubtedly we owe much of this capacity for withstanding untoward vicissitudes, to our geographical position and commercial relations. The wonderful fertility of the soil, the salubrity of the climate, stretching from 42 degrees 30 minutes north, nearly four hundred miles directly south, adapts it well to the immigrant from all parts of the world, and forces the trade and travel of the still western states and territories to pass through our state, and give us the benefit of the transit of their commerce. The large surplus of her productions, which generally remains partially on hand from year to year, as the consequence of her fertility, have not only placed her beyond the serious consequences of a short crop, a single season, but also shows the possession of such a supply as to warrant the assurance that we need not fear of suffering from want, from any thing that may be expected in the season to come. While this is true with respect to the necessaries of life, we are scarcely less happily situated with regard to our commercial relations. The canal, the rivers, the lakes, the railroads, the plank roads, and the other means of commercial life; our position on the direct line of commerce between the east and the west; the wonderful trade that is already being carried forward; the capital and energy that is being invested among us in consequence of our advantages, all serve to conspire to shield us from the consequences of any ordinary financial crisis.

I think the history of the world may safely be challenged for instances of more rapid growth in the elements of wealth and prosperity than have characterized this state for the few past years. Within the last six years she has completed, and has now in successful operation, about 1837 miles of railroad of the best construction, and 847 miles more in the course of construction, that without much doubt will be finished in the course of two years from this time. She has about 150 miles of plank road. She has brought nearly her whole wide prairie under subjection, and increased her population in a ratio almost incredible. Her flourishing cities have sprung up as if by magic, and she has passed from a condition of rudeness to a populous, refined and cultivated state. Having scarcely an acre of waste land within her limits, she is capable of supporting a population of wonderful density. The lead, iron and coal with which her territory abounds, hold out inducements for many added thousands of industrious laborers, and promise to freight the channels of commerce with their products. These and many others, contributing to the wealth, the comfort and the importance of our state, afford the strong hope that, with wise and judicious councils, she may continue to advance with unabated rapidity.

The financial circumstances to which I have alluded, have tested with severity the strength and condition of the banking institutions of the state. It may well be doubted whether any system of bank credits which the system of man can devise, will be entirely free from the evils of over trading and extravagance, occasioned by great prosperity, and the ease of obtaining money in such times. The public mind is now somewhat excited upon the monetary system of the country, and may demand some modification of the present bank law of the state. I would recommend that if any modification is made to the present law, that a strict accountability to the administrators of the law be required. Where there is a capital, and a willingness to keep safe at all times, there can be no objection to such modification, and every safeguard thrown around the interest of the public, in this respect, inspires the people with confidence in their stability, and lessens the chances for panic and distrust. The consciousness deduced from actual knowledge on the part of the people, that such an institution is safe beyond a doubt, causes them to aid and foster it, when, from a great desire to extend a large business upon a small capital, the proper safeguards are lost sight of, and every excitement in the monetary world the people are made to suffer by suspensions and failures. You cannot be too cautious in this particular. The bank commissioners have promptly called upon the banks of the state to deposit further security for the redemption of their circulation, which I hope will be promptly done, that the public may not in any case lose by the failure of a bank to pay specie on demand; and that those having the matter in charge, will at all hazards see the law fully carried out and complied with. Former experience, and the condition of things around us, all seem to prove that the present financial difficulty will turn to the benefit of the country at large; it will cause all to retrace their steps, to curtail expenses, and to prepare a more economical mode of living and transacting of their business.

It is satisfactory to know that while the public improvements of the state have undoubtedly been impeded by the financial embarrassments of the country, yet no important work that had progressed far has been stopped. The great lines of railroad stretching across the state are progressing with rapidity and approaching early completion. They have become too numerous to be mentioned in detail, and have been watched with too much public interest to require any recital of their condition. Being among the most important elements of public prosperity, and pushed forward by a class of men whose energy and capacity need not fear the rivalry of any superiors, they have turned the attention of the world to the high position of the state, and given a new and magical impetus to her progress. It is probable that some new projects, and those in anticipation, will be delayed for a season, till the times shall become more propitious, but I think it is already clearly demonstrated that all the important lines now commenced will be speedily completed. There can be no doubt that this satisfactory condition is the result arising from the large amount of business done on all new lines already completed. I believe it is a fact, without exception, that every railroad in the state, as soon as a sufficient number of miles have been completed to justify the placing a train of cars upon it, has been freighted with business beyond its capacity, and has paid a remunerating profit to its enterprising builders.

Your attention is particularly directed to the Illinois Central Railroad, as one with which the interests of the state are more immediately identified. I refer to its progress with very great satisfaction, and am confident its interests could hardly have been entrusted to a class of men of greater energy, or more regardful of the rights and interests of the state. By the terms of the charter, the state will commence to receive the amount of seven per cent. on the gross receipts of the main trunk of the road, that is, from Cairo to La Salle, on the 24th day of March next, and two years from the 24th of March next the state will begin to receive seven per cent. upon the gross receipts of the branches thereof, unless sooner finished, at which time the payment of the per cent. is by the law bound to be made. I think it would be safe to calculate a net revenue from the main trunk of this road for the first year, from March 24th next, at $50,000. The history of the world can hardly furnish an instance of a work of equal length and magnitude, which has progressed with so little parade and achieved equal results. There has been a very natural apprehension in the public mind that the company would retard the growth and interests of the state by long holding their lands from market. This apprehension has already been answered by the offer of nearly all the land now at their disposal, on terms so liberal to the actual settler as to insure the immediate settlement of a great extent of country. A wise, steady policy, such as has thus far marked the course of the company, while it is well calculated to advance their permanent interest, cannot fail of producing the most favorable influences upon the minds of the people. Col. Mason, the chief engineer of this road, has comprehended the interest of the company as well as the state, and pushed forward this work with wonderful ability and energy. The whole business seems to have been reduced to a system, and faithfully carried out by those in his charge.

The estimated cost of this road, including equipment, is	-	$ 20,000,000
Amount already expended,	-	17,000,000
Yet to be expended,	-	$ 3,000,000

Length of main line completed,	-	308 miles.
Galena branch,	-	146 miles.
Of which is finished,	-	129 "

Yet to finish,	-	17 "
----------------	---	-------------

Length of Chicago branch,	-	250 miles.
Of which is completed,	-	150 "

Unfinished,	-	100 "

Making completed,	-	587 miles.
And unfinished,	-	117 miles.

The amount to do on the Galena branch will be done by the first of April next, if the weather continues good for work during the winter, and the Chicago branch some time during the summer of 1855. This road has now 104 locomotives finished, 47 passenger cars, and 1,154 freight cars.

Pre-emption claims allowed on company's land,	-	97,103.25 acres.
Cash received on same to 30th November,	-	$242,758 12
Sale of mortgage lands to 30th November,	-	26,954.46 acres.
Cash received on same,	-	$24,233 95
Total amount of sales,	-	$293,318 14

Average price for which the above lands were sold per acre is $10 88. Large amounts are now selling daily, and in nearly all cases to actual settlers. This road penetrates the best part of Illinois, and will cause rapid settlement on its line.

As intimately connected with this subject, I beg leave to invite your attention to the subject of the improvement of our navigable rivers and lake harbors by the general government. In a former communication I took occasion to place before the legislature the best estimate I could compile, with the means then at hand, showing the commerce of some of our cities on the lake, the canal, the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, within our borders. I am satisfied that statistics would now show that commerce, over the whole state, increased full fifty per cent. in the past two years, and with this estimate I desire to solicit your attention to the views then presented. Subsequent observation has strongly confirmed my opinion in relation to the claims which the west has upon the attention and consideration of the general government. While the sales of the public lands are largely swelling the national treasury ; while nearly the entire national revenue is drawn from the two sources of taxes upon commerce and the western lands, the west is sending forward through the channels of commerce immense amounts of the products of her toil, and receiving in return those imports which supply the national government with its treasure. While the hardy settler is doing battle with all the toil of frontier life, he is too often doomed to the melancholy destruction of his property by those continued marine disasters which render transportation by the lakes and rivers so hazardous. The marked inequality which has distinguished the policy of the national government upon this subject, between the east and the west, has been too often the subject of discussion to need repetition here ; but it is difficult to comprehend that construction of the constitution which disregards the character of the commerce to be regulated and protected, and is wholly controlled by its locality. If there is any one subject upon which the general government should evince a lively interest, it is that commerce which gives life and power to the country at home, and commands for it the respect of all nations abroad ; and if there is any subject on which the general government should be national, and discard all sectional favoritism, it is the protection of that commerce, wherever it is. The Mississippi and Missouri rivers form the dividing line between a great number of states. They almost divide the continent asunder. The productions of their valleys are carried by water to almost every section of the habitable globe. In return, the products of every enlightened nation under the sun find a wide market in these great valleys, and pay an immense revenue into the treasury of the republic. There is no element in the character of the nation which gives it more strength at home and character abroad than this wide-spread commerce, If it is admitted to be national when it reaches its first Atlantic harbor, how can it cease to be so when it passes beyond that and reaches the Mississippi ; or even passing beyond that and is found first unloading on the shores of the Ohio, Wabash, or the Illinois ? These being my settled convictions upon a topic of such imminent moment to the interest of our state, surrounded and cut through as we are by rivers and a lake, the improvement of which is so much needed, I have deemed it my duty to urge the matter upon your special attention. While I am aware you have no direct power over the question, yet I cannot avoid the hope that strong and emphatic instructions to the senators and representatives of this state in congress, given in a firm but temperate spirit, may give to them a moral influence which they could not otherwise exert.

The advancement of our state for the last few years warrants us in the expectation, that with a watchful regard for her true interests, as before enumerated, will place her ahead of any state in the Union by the 1st of June, 1870, in point of population, intelligence, and the great facilities for business of all kinds. I am aware that such a statement will be looked upon by many as a fancy of the imagination, but when we contemplate that our state has nearly or quite doubled each five years for the past twenty, it does not need so great a stretch of the imagination to believe it.

The agricultural interests of the state has in a great measure been overlooked by the legislature. I would call your especial attention to this subject. Agricultural prosperity lies deep at the foundation of national growth. Having a soil of remarkable fertility, with a uniform average quality, she has the inherent qualities and capacity for the support of a dense population. To develop these advantages to their utmost extent is to every citizen a subject of great interest and importance. To carry out and encourage this subject, two state fairs have already been held, and have given evidence of valuable results. Perhaps no better means can be devised to stimulate and encourage agricultural advancement, and it is submitted whether the appropriation from the treasury, in aid of these objects, may not be increased to three or five thousand dollars a year, with great profit to that interest in our state which is at the foundation of all greatness. I am fully satisfied that the state would in the end reap a rich reward for all money expended in this way.

In a former communication I recommended the amendment of the state constitution in some particulars deemed to me important. The tardy manner of amendment now provided by the constitution—the many features in which amendment is desirable—the intimate relation the different features of that instrument bear to each other, all seem to point to a convention for its entire revision. On the score of economy, it appears to me that nothing could be lost by such convention, when it is remembered that each proposed amendment must now undergo discussion and occupy the time of the legislature for two successive sessions, and then be submitted to the people for their votes. It is not deemed necessary at this time to go into any detail of the points of objection to the present instrument, but to submit to your judgment the call of a convention in which all the provisions may be fully and fairly considered, and a constitution drafted which shall be better adapted to the wishes of the people and the present condition of the state.

The legislature having at its last session provided for the appointment of a superintendent of public instruction, and made it his duty to recommend to you suitable provisions for the entire reorganization of common schools, the subject is most earnestly recommended to your thoughtful consideration. I am not fully informed of the peculiar provisions which will be submitted to you by the superintendent, but the confidence reposed in his judgment, and the great amount of care and attention he has given the subject since his appointment, gives me the utmost confidence that he will be able to submit to you a plan which will be acceptable to the people and greatly enhance the benefits of the common school system. I do not deem it necessary to repeat the recommendations heretofore made in reference to common schools, but the whole subject is submitted to your attention, with the belief that you will be able to mature such a system as that the advantages of education will be much more generally diffused, and that the character of the schools will be sufficiently elevated to place within the reach of every child of the state the means of an education which shall fit them for every station and condition in life.

The attention of the legislature is called to the propriety of placing a copy of Webster's Quarto Dictionary in each of our district schools. This work has become a national treasure, and its great value as a work of reference cannot be too fully appreciated. It is an encyclopedia imperatively needed in every school room. Some of the states of the Union have made appropriations to place it in every district school. For its vast amount of information, for its great usefulness as the acknowledged standard of our language, it demands at the hands of the constituted authorities a permanent place in all our districts.

During the past year, the friends of the colored population of this country have been making special efforts to thoroughly organize colonization societies upon a permanent and effective basis. The religious societies of this section of the state have taken action upon the subject, and now are making strong efforts to raise funds to successfully establish the society. If once started under the direction of good and efficient officers it could be carried into effect. I have no doubt but much good could be done, and that many humane and benevolent persons would freely give to aid in colonizing our colored population, where they would enjoy the rights of citizens, and be considered men, and take part in all the duties in life, and thereby separate the blacks from the whites, and send them to the land of their fathers. An effort will be made the present session to have you charter such society, and to aid in its efforts, which I hope will meet your approbation and sanction.

The benevolent institutions of the state, at Jacksonville, the hospital for the insane, the asylums for the education of the deaf and dumb and the blind, are in a flourishing condition, and answering all the purposes for which they were established. The legislature in the establishing of these institutions, has shown a philanthropy worthy of older and more populous states. The police arrangements of the insane asylum has been changed during the past year, and I have reason to hope that any difference of opinion that formerly existed has been so far healed as to insure a general good feeling towards the institution. That of the asylums for the deaf and dumb and the blind remain as at the last session, commanding the confidence of the entire community, so far as I am informed. You will in due time receive from the superintendents of these institutions reports giving a full information in reference to their progress and management.

In my message to the general assembly, at their regular session, Jan. 10th, 1853, I based a calculation that if the taxes were kept at the same per cent. on the dollar for various state purposes, and the increase of taxable property in the state each year be ten per cent., that, with the other available assets of the state applied, in eleven years from that time the state debt would be reduced to $74,080 62. I am pleased to inform you that the past two years the increase of taxable property, after making all abatements for errors &c. was, for 1853 over 1852, 51 per cent., and the increase on all taxable property for 1854 over 1853, (no lands being taxable only once in two years, except those sold after one assessment and previous to the next, and the personal property,) is about 14 4-9 per cent., making an average increase of the taxable property of the state for the last two years 32 per cent. instead of 10 per cent., as assumed in the calculation referred to. I think we can reasonably expect an increase of at least 20 per cent. a year for the next few years on all taxable property of the state. Should this supposition prove true, and the taxes remain as now fixed by law, and the avails regularly applied to its extinguishment, the debt would be paid much sooner than assumed. I have no doubt but the receipts from the Central Railroad and branches will far exceed the amount of $114,000 per year, as stated in the calculation.

The present condition of the state debt may be stated as follows, showing the amount paid during the past two years, and the amount due January 1st, 1855:

1855, Jan. 1.

Internal Improvement debt, principal,.....	$ 5,771,959 74

Interest on same to January 1, 1855,.....	2,959,681 96
		7,848,204 79
		17,944,652 89
Less amount of the two mill tax state debt fund,.....	702,152 26
“ amount interest fund received into the treasury from 1st Dec. 1852, to 1st December, 1854,.....	590,645 56
“ amount from ordinary revenue to pay ins't on liquidation bonds,.....	20,648 71
“ amount surplus revenue to purchase state indebtedness,.....	137,053 82
“ amount of the fund received from sale of state land to purchase state indebtedness,.....	280,894 06
“ amount paid by board of trustees of the Illinois and Michigan canal, to fully liquidate the $1,600,000 loan,.....	525,008 79
“ amount that will be saved in purchasing state indebtedness at the market value with surplus and land fund received to Jan. 1, 1855,.....	215,510 82
“ amount received for tolls on canal for the past two years, and for land and lots sold, as well as amount received for land previously sold and not paid for until within the past 2 years, 1,477,123 94		3,950,037 96
		13,994,614 93

By the foregoing it will be seen that besides paying enough to pay the entire interest upon the state debt each year, for the past two years, there has been paid and applied upon the arrearages of interest and the principal of the debt, the sum of $2,750,037 96, being the sum of $1,375,018 98 each year, over and above the accruing interest, making in all paid on principal and interest during the past two years, the sum of $3,950,037 96. During the next two years I confidently expect that the amount from all sources, derived from the available assets of the state, and the revenue applicable to the liquidation of the state debt, will be increased at least twenty per cent., which will render the calculation certain that the views entertained two years ago will be more than realized in ten years, instead of the eleven, and I might say still sooner, but prefer to give full time. The past two years have realized over $750,037 96 more than enough to meet the calculation that the debt would be paid all but $74,080 62, in eleven years. It will be perceived that a large amount has been paid at this time more than enough to meet the calculation referred to during the past two years, and that the principal and the interest of the debt is being absorbed and canceled each year, while the revenue from all sources is rapidly increasing, and swelling the means of the state to pay. The late time in which the canal trustees make their report obliges me to obtain the amount of receipts from assets and tolls of the canal from a source that may not entirely agree with the sum reported by the trustees, but will not vary enough to make any considerable difference.

In conclusion, allow me to say, that in all your deliberations for the promotion of the general good, you shall have my hearty co-operation.

J. A. MATTESON.

Mr. Speaker : The Senate has passed a bill entitled as follows, viz :

A bill for "An act for the relief of Wesley Staton."

In the passage of which I am directed respectfully to ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Higbee offered the following resolution :

Whereas, the policy advocated by our revolutionary sires, as evinced by that clause of the declaration of independence, which complains of the king of Great Britain that "he has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners, refusing to pass others to encourage their emigration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands," was founded in deep political forethought and in sympathy for those suffering abroad from political or religious oppression, and which policy, with but brief and odious intermission, sustained by the legislation of our country, is eminently conducive to the public welfare; and whereas, efforts are now being made in congress to destroy this policy, by the repeal of the naturalization laws, or by the extension of the time of probation to twenty-one years, which we consider as nearly equal to a total abrogation of them; and whereas, in our opinion, virtue, ability and patriotism should not be proscribed in consequence of the place of birth, and their possessor made to feel that he is a political outcast, stamped with a brand of political inferiority in the land of his adoption, in the birth-place of his children, and in the country about which are clustered his future hopes, and which, in the appointed time, will receive his mortal remains—therefore,

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That our senators in congress be instructed, and our representatives requested to use all honorable exertions to defeat the repeal of the naturalization laws, or extension of the time now required for the naturalization of those of foreign birth, or any return to the illiberal policy of the administration of John Adams.

Whereas, in the opinion of the General Assembly, the people of the state of Illinois continue to feel a deep and lively interest in the subject of internal improvements; and whereas no system of internal improvements is so calculated to expand the energies of our people and develop the vast and rich resources of our state, by affording a speedy access to market and an irresistible inducement to the early settlement of our extensive and fertile prairies, as the construction of railroads; and whereas it behooves us, as representatives of the people in the nineteenth General Assembly, to spare no effort to remove every impediment to the immediate construction of any and all railroads now in course of construction, or in contemplation, running to or within the borders of our state; and whereas the present duty on railroad iron is a serious obstacle to the construction of railroads—therefore,

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That our senators in congress be instructed, and our representatives requested, to use all honorable means to obtain the passage of a law by congress admitting railroad iron into the United States free of duty.

Whereas by an act of congress, approved September 28, 1850, certain swamp lands were donated to this state, and in consequence of their not having been withdrawn from market before they were selected by the commissioner appointed for that purpose, a portion of said lands were purchased, bona fide, of the United States, and paid for in money or bounty warrants.

And whereas, also, the state of Illinois, by an act of the general assembly, approved June 22, 1852, made it lawful for the different counties to whom the lands were donated to convey such of said lands as were purchased as aforesaid to the purchaser, and to take the assignments of said bounty warrants.

Now, therefore, to do justice to the purchasers, and to prevent the necessity of the counties making the transfers of title and take the assignments and traffic in bounty warrants, and to prevent the refunding of the taxes already collected by the state that were assessed upon said lands—

Resolved, That our senators be instructed and our representatives be requested to introduce into the congress of the United States and use their best exertions to procure the passage thereof, at its present session, an act requiring the United States to issue patents conveying to the purchasers of such swamp lands as were purchased, bona fide, and after passage by congress of said swamp land act, and before the same were withdrawn from market; and to require the general government to pay to the state of Illinois, for the benefit of the counties respectively entitled to the same, the amount received by the United States for said lands.

Resolved, That the governor be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions and preamble to each of our senators and representatives in congress.

Whereas, his excellency the governor has, in his late message, urged the importance of appropriations from the funds of the general government to improve the facilities of western commerce, and suggested to the legislature the propriety of the passage of resolutions by that body, instructing our senators and representatives to use their influence to procure a law authorizing such appropriations;

And whereas, the revenue arising from the sale of western lands and that commerce which seeks its final landing place in Illinois and other portions of the Mississippi valley, creating, as they do, a very large proportion of the revenue of the United States;

And whereas, but a very small proportion of the national revenue which has, from time to time, been expended in the construction of works of public improvements has been so applied as, in any direct manner, to benefit the west.

And whereas, our great and rapidly increasing commerce, and the lives and property of our citizens, are constantly imperilled by the dangerous obstructions to navigation which exist on our lakes and rivers; therefore—

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That national faith and justice to western interests demand it, and that we respectfully instruct our senators and request our representatives in congress to do all in their power to procure from the fund of the general government such appropriations as may be necessary for the removal of the aforesaid obstructions.

Hosmer,

Mr. Lovejoy offered the following preamble and resolutions :

Whereas, human slavery is a violation of the principles of natural and revealed rights; and whereas, the fathers of the revolution, fully imbued with the spirit of these principles, declared freedom to be the inalienable birthright of all men; and whereas, the preamble to the constitution of the United States avers that that instrument was ordained to establish justice, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity; and whereas, in furtherance of the above principles, slavery was forever prohibited in the old North-west Territory, and more recently in all that territory lying west and north of the state of Missouri, by the act of the federal government; and whereas, the repeal of the prohibition, last referred to, was contrary to the wishes of the people of Illinois, a violation of an implied compact, long deemed and held sacred by the citizens of the United States, and a wide departure from the uniform action of the general government in relation to the extension of slavery; therefore—

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein, That our senators in congress be instructed, and our representatives requested, to introduce, if not otherwise introduced, and to vote for a bill to restore such prohibition to the aforesaid territories, and also to extend a similar prohibition to all territory which now belongs to the United States, or which may hereafter come under their jurisdiction.

Resolved That our senators be instructed, and our representatives requested, to vote against the admission of any state into the Union the constitution of which does not prohibit slavery, whether the territory out of which such state may have been formed shall have been acquired by conquest, treaty, purchase, or from original territory of the United States.

Resolved, That our senators in congress be instructed and our representatives requested to introduce and vote for a bill to repeal an act entitled "An act respecting fugitives from justice and persons escaping from the service of their masters;" and laying in that, for such a modification of it as shall secure the right of habeas corpus and trial by jury before the regularly constituted authorities of the state, to all persons claimed as owing service or labor.

Mr. Lovejoy moved to make the resolutions the special order for two o'clock, this day. Adopted.

Lyman Trumbull, having received a majority of all the votes cast, was declared by the speaker duly elected to the Senate of the United States from this state, for the term of six years, from the 4th day of March next.

After which, the Senate retired from the House of Representatives, and,

On motion of Mr. Grove,

The House adjourned till 9 o'clock, A. M., to-morrow morning.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1855.

House met, pursuant to adjournment.

Prayer by the Rev. Dr. Dodge.

On motion of Mr. Grove,

The reading of the journal of yesterday was dispensed with.

On motion of Mr. Masters,

The rules were suspended for the purpose of offering a resolution.

Mr. Masters then offered the following resolutions:

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That Messrs. Owen Lovejoy of Bureau county, S. D. Masters of Menard county, John E. McClun of McLean county, William Lyman of Winnebago county, Robert Boal of Marshall county, and G. D. A. Parks of Will county, of the House, and Messrs. B. C. Cook of La Salle county, B. Graham of Henry county, and J. H. Campbell of McDonough county, of the Senate, be and they are hereby appointed a commission to visit each and all of the state institutions located at Jacksonville, and to investigate all pecuniary claims, together with all other matters connected with the interest and proper management of said institutions, respectively; and said commissioners are hereby clothed with full power to send for persons and papers, and examine witnesses under oath.

Resolved, further, That said commissioners shall have power to sit at any time after the adjournment of the present session of the legislature, and continue from day to day until they shall have accomplished the object herein contemplated.

Resolved, further, That said commissioners shall report the result of their inquiries to this body at its next session, the first week thereof.

Mr. Waters moved to lay the resolutions on the table. Lost.

Mr. Richmond of Cook then offered the following amendment :

Whereas the constitution of this state prohibits a regular session of the legislature oftener than once in two years ; and whereas the practical operation of the same is to limit its sessions to thirty-six working days each term ; and whereas, in the opinion of this legislature, the interests of the state require more care and deliberation to look after the great and varied interests of this state than can be given to it by the legislative bodies convening as above ; and whereas during the limited time so allowed to legislation, members' attention being almost exclusively occupied with their local and private bills, to the great neglect of the business of a public character ; therefore,

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, That a joint committee of three members on the part of the House, and two on the part of the Senate, be appointed to sit in vacation, with power to act in all matters of public interest ; to examine into and look after the lands belonging to the state, schedule and value the same ; to investigate the costs, accounts and conditions of the state institutions ; to look into the affairs of all the officers of the state, their condition and management ; to investigate the condition of the finances of the state and direct legal proceedings if deemed necessary for the interest of the state ; to look after and investigate all subjects where the interest of the state is involved, with power to take testimony and send for papers and persons, and compel their attendance ; which committee shall report to the public through the public prints, as circumstances require ; and especially to make a full and general report to the next legislature as to the ability and propriety of resuming a full payment of interest on the state indebtedness, and all other matters coming within the action of the committee ; that the members of said committee be allowed three dollars per day for their services, and ten cents per mile for traveling expenses, as compensation for their services ; and all necessary expenditures incurred by said committee in investigating the affairs of the state be allowed, and that the auditor of public accounts be instructed to audit all such accounts, and draw on the treasurer of state for such amounts.

Mr. Pursley moved to lay the amendment on the table.
